

eConsent Advance Care Planning Collaborative

Membership Prospectus

When a patient experiences serious, life-limiting illness or injury it is a challenging time for everyone including the patient, family members, caregivers, and clinicians. Because of the mortality rate associated with SARS-CoV-2 infection (COVID-19), interest in and need for Advance Care Planning (ACP) is now heightened. The Interoperability Institute (IOI), Object Management Group® (OMG®), BPM Plus Health (BPM+), and Point-of-Care Partners (POCP) have formed an eConsent ACP Collaborative to expand the use of eConsent and Advanced Care Planning to address this amplified need.

This multi-stakeholder collaborative will include members representing healthcare payers, providers, government agencies, industry associations, health information exchanges, ACP and EHR vendors. These stakeholders will work together as members of the Collaborative to develop improved business processes, care pathways and data standards. They will support, and not compete with, private and public companies, organizations, and agencies that are already engaged in this work.

A Steering Committee will be formed from the initial member organizations. The Committee will then form Workgroups to address specific use cases, with the initial use case being the design, optimization, and implementation of an ACP workflow. The short-term goal will be to implement this workflow with a participating provider organization. This is an open Collaborative, and its work products will be shared with organizations worldwide that could benefit from their use.

Participation in the Collaborative is an important commitment of valuable time and money. The select group of stakeholders that are chosen to participate as members will benefit by being able to influence the technology and business processes promulgated by the collaborative. Perhaps more important, members will be able to demonstrate their support of ACP which provides a strong personal benefit to patients, their families, and caregivers during perhaps the most challenging time of their lives. We hope you will join us!
